PROGRESS AT PURYEAR—The steel framework for the club house at the Henry-Calloway Recreation Corp. is up and workmen began installation of siding Monday. The swimming pool has been dug and a corporation official said the concrete was expected to be poured this week. He said the project was about 30 days behind schedule due to bad weather earlier this year.

Seen & Heard Around Murray

Russia has 1,050 land-based intercontinental missiles, or will have, by the end of the year.

We have high regard for the ability of our military leaders. Senator Edward Kennedy said recently of the American assault on Hamburger Hill "the assault on Hamburger Hill is only symptomatic of a mentality and a policy that require immediate attention."

We disagree completely. Few people know all the facts concerning a military operation, and looking at it from afar and dispassionately, may form completely different ideas. Then too, Senator Kennedy is looking for a political future and grasps at anything which might be popular in the public mind. His thinking is formed by popular thinking, or any idea which might be popular.

We have little use for him.

We do not like to see anyone capitalize on a situation such as this, particularly when they could not change the situation one iota if they were elected to the position to which they seek.

One ton of newspapers equals 1,968 pounds of paper and 32 pounds of ink.

The name of a motion picture is "Can Hieronymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?"

Our Grape Vine has grapes.

Several Murray folks going to a broad. Favorite stunt is to get some new one dollar bills and have them padded along one edge. Use them for tips. An American dollar is prized highly overseas.

We prize them too.

Representative Ray Roberts of Texas is sponsoring a bill which would promote new projects in highway, hospital and low-cost housing construction, plus development of natural resources. Business men in Kentucky surveyed reflected the opinion that 27 per cent favor the idea, while 71 per cent oppose the idea, while two per cent had no opinion.

Increase Granted For Auto Collision Insurance Rates

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — State Insurance Commissioner Robert D. Preston today denied an increase in automobile insurance liability rates, but granted a 22.9 per cent average hike in physical damage rates. The decision came in the application of the Insurance Rating Board, whose member companies wrote about 30 per cent of the liability coverage and about 45 per cent of the physical damage coverage in the state.

As an example, car owners in the Lexington area will pay $11.81 more per year for $100 deductible collision coverage and $1.04 more for comprehensive coverage.

The higher rates for physical damage coverage will yield the companies $2.9 million more per year in premium income.

The liability increases, which were denied, would have brought it about $1 million a year, Preston said.

Preston said he denied the liability increases because "no change would be justified" on bodily injury and medical payments coverages.

However, he said the IRB's companies are due same increase on property damage coverage.

"If they come back on property damage, I'd have to say they're entitled to about half the $1 million," Preston said.

In denying high liability rates, Preston said the companies did not make sufficient allowance for income on investments in that category. Proper allowance was made in the physical damage category, he said.

The physical damage rate increases allowed by the order will vary according to the rating territory and the owner's age, family status and other factors.

Teenage Girl Is Charged With Setting Fire, Killing Family

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — Susan Bailey, 15, joins her 13-year-old brother at Parkersburg Cemetery today for the funeral of their parents and 10 brothers and sisters.

The 12 Baileys will be buried in a mass grave. All died in a fire that flashed through the tarpaper covered house they rented for $65 a month only two weeks before Sunday's blaze.

Police said Susan and her brother Roger, who slept in a shack adjacent to the house, deliberately touched off the fire that all but wiped out their family, apparently because her father disapproved of a boyfriend. They siphoned gasoline from the tank of a truck their father used in his job as a Wood County maintenance man, carried it into the house in a washtub, and sloshed it throughout the house, police said.

After touching off the blaze, which roared through the house like a torch, they ran outside. When firemen arrived Susan and Roger told them the blaze had started so fast they could not help, police said.

The firemen were too late. Charles Bailey, 41, his wife Ruby, 36, and 10 of their children burned to death. The children, ranging in age from six months to 17 years were Ted, Dale, Steve, Deborah, Timothy, Mary, Claudia, Patricia and Nancy.

Another daughter, Mrs. Judy Furry, returned from her home in Illinois to handle today's funeral arrangements.

"I don't hate her," Mrs. Furry said of her sister. "I don't have any feeling for her, but I don't"

Ann Herron To Become MSU Associate Director, Library

Miss Ann Herron, reference librarian at Murray State University since 1962, will become associate director of the library on July 1, according to President Harry M. Sparks.

She will also be acting librarian this summer while Charles F. Hinds is off campus working on his doctoral degree.

Miss Herron was one of three Murray State staff members presented 25-year service plaques at the annual alumni banquet last month.

A graduate of Hazel High School and Murray State College, Miss Herron holds a bachelor of library science degree from the University of Illinois and an advanced master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan. She has also done graduate work at Columbia, Northwestern, and the University of Colorado.

Miss Herron joined the Murray State staff in 1944. She was appointed reference librarian in 1962 and four years later was named assistant librarian.

She has taught graduate library science courses in summer schools at the University of Kentucky, Louisiana State University, University of California, University of Washington, University of Oklahoma and Drexel Institute of Technology.

MSU Summer Term Starts Next Monday

A record summer enrollment is expected at Murray State University when students register Monday, June 16, for the eight-week summer term.

"All indications are that the graduate enrollment will be up noticeably, while the undergraduate enrollment is also expected to increase slightly," said William Gantt, director of admissions and registrar.

Gantt said he bases his estimate on the number of inquiries about the summer session, applications by new students and the actual notifications by students that they will be enrolled.

Summer classes begin Tuesday, June 17, and continue through August 8. A large selection of both graduate and undergraduate courses is available.

Students may still be admitted to the university for the summer term, according to Gantt.

He said interested students should contact the registrar's office for admission forms and information.

Last year's summer enrollment established an all-time high with 2,800 students taking classes. An additional 275 students — representing another record — attended the three-week inter-session which followed the summer term.

The inter-session, when only 12-15 courses are offered, always begins the Monday after the regular summer term ends and continues until each class has met 15 times. Students may take only one course, and each class meeting lasts three hours. The inter-session this summer will run August 11-29.

During the regular summer term, students may take up to 10 semester hours of course work. Most classes meet one hour a day, five days a week. In classes which include laboratory or field trip requirements, however, there will be a variation from the normal pattern. There will also be exceptions in 11 graduate workshops scheduled during the regular summer session — seven in agriculture, two in home economics and one each in education and communications. To run three weeks each, the workshops will be conducted similar to inter-session classes and will offer three hours of credit.

Dates and topics of the workshops are:

June 16 - July 4 — Agriculture 503, Animal Breeding; Agriculture 555, Advanced Soil Fertility; Agriculture 670, Advanced Farm Machinery; and Agricultural Education 682, Determining Course Content.

June 30 - July 18 — Home Economics 661, Home Economics Supervision; Communications 501, The Short Story; Communication 502, The Novel; Communications 503, Poetry; and Communications 504, Special Articles.

July 7 - July 25 — Agriculture 642, Advanced Plant Breeding; Agriculture 671, Advanced Rural Electrification; Agricultural Education 684, Occupational Objectives; and Education 594, Remedial Reading.

July 21 - August 8 — Home Economics 611, Advanced Problems in Child Development.

Also this summer, Murray State is conducting three institutes — two in the sciences and one in international education, and a Foreign Study League tour of Europe.

Other campus activity will include several workshops for high school students and an Upward Bound federal program for bright high school students from low-income families.

Teachers from throughout the area who will be involved in Head Start programs this summer are also attending a training conference on Murray State campus this week.

Pestilential Pesticides

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - About 300 pesticides are available for controlling insects, according to Richard Miller, entomologist at Ohio State University.

One of the safest mixtures to use, Miller says, is a combination of malathion, methoxychlor and fungicide.

The U. S. Public Health Service estimates the loss to the American economy due to direct and indirect costs of tuberculosis is around one billion dollars annually.

Concentrated People

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - John B. Mitchell, sociologist at Ohio State University, reports that 30 per cent of America's population lives on 99 per cent of the land area and the other 70 per cent live on the remaining 1 per cent.

"The lion's share of air and water pollutants come from the large concentrations of population," Mitchell says, "and rural lands are the recipients of much of the wastes."

FISH CAUSE PILEUP - Youngsters pick up fish on route C-1 at Revere, Mass., after freak accident caused four trucks (lower) to pile into each other. THE PETITE Kim isn't upset about playing a pregnant girl—even though she looks like a younger version of Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz." "It's the most beautiful period in a woman's life," she said. And in private life she is the mother of a year-old daughter, Heather.

Miss Darby and her actor-husband, James Stacy, are separated after a brief marriage. The film pregnancy, by the way, progresses to a simulated (of course) natural birth scene, also witnessed by her film husband, Deuel.

The young film couple plans in a home-made delivery room in their grubby living quarters with only the father-to-be in attendance. One of Deuel's hang-ups in the film role, that is, is that he believes all doctors are social phonies.

David Janssen, who recently was the father of a grown son in "Where It's At," now plays the sophisticated swinging father in "Generation." He is suddenly hit with the news that his daughter has gotten married only when the star's wings are noisily flapping overhead.

Papa David always considered himself to be a liberal and very much with it—until he meets up with this generation, via his son-in-law. Conversely, Deuel is certain that the father-in-law is part of the Establishment that he dislikes heartily.

"PETER and I typify today's young people," claims Kim. "I mean the ones who are trying to change and improve the world around them. We are not hippies by any means. Our director, George Schaefer, described us as infinitely close to the American pioneer in the dedicated pursuit of ideals."

"This is a funny, yet serious, comedy. The role is all girl warm and responsive for me."

yet no Goody Two-Shoes. And she's different from the tomboy I did in "True Grit" when I was looking for my father's murderer. In that one I was sort of a female "Huck Finn." This is a contemporary comedy with a look of the 1970s.

Kim is no stranger to the mores of Hollywood. She's a rare Hollywood-born actress. Her parents' last name is Zerkby and her given name was Deborah but her father called her "Derby" and thus she was known as "Derby Zerkby."

"I shudder when I think of those days," she shuddered. "When I became an actress, I did something drastic about it. I stole 'Kim' from the most popular girl at school and gave an English touch to Derby by making it 'Derby.'"

MISS DARBY started in TV, making her biggest splash as a blind girl in a "Mr. Novak" segment with James Franciscus. Ironically, Franciscus recently co-starred with her present father, David Janssen, in "Marooned."

Although Kim has had great success in many TV roles, she is now shunning them to concentrate on films. She even turned down a role in ex-husband-to-be Stacy's "Lancer" series. She would have played opposite him—as he takes on the role of a blinded victim!

Now, despite the success which has come so suddenly and strongly, Miss Darby says the glamor of success is a paradox for she lives alone and is quite lonely.

"I'm very shy," she admits, "and acquiring friends is hard for me. I am not an actress in my off-hours. I am me. And I avoid the so-called Hollywood social scene. I don't condemn it. It's OK for those who like that sort of thing, but count me out. I'm about the quietest person on any set. I don't like to be out front."

She was not referring to her physical pregnant image.

Today's True Test for Movie Stardom

By ARMY ARCHERD

HOLLYWOOD—Here's a true test of stardom. In her second film, Kim Darby is pregnant throughout—and unmarried until the last minute of this pregnancy. Well, that's what's happening in Hollywood these days. At least in the career of this expected super-star. The 22-year-old Kim is 22—but could pass for 15. She has jumped from co-starring with John Wayne to David Janssen.

In "Generation," the film version of the hit play which starred Hank Ford, Kim also appears with Carl Reiner, Peter Deuel and Andy Prince. She co-starred with Wayne in "True Grit" also with Glen Campbell. And they'll team again, soon as she completes "Generation" and Campbell winds his TV series. Their next film is "Norwood."

It looks like this wholesome-looking American duo may be the new screen team of the decade. Unless, of course, there's an unexpected reaction to her playing this offbeat role in "Generation."

THE PETITE Kim isn't upset about playing a pregnant girl—even though she looks like a younger version of Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz." "It's the most beautiful period in a woman's life," she said. And in private life she is the mother of a year-old daughter, Heather.

Airlines Now Taking Reservations for Flights to the Moon

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) - There was this joke about the confident travel agent who, virtually buried among stacks of brochures and pamphlets, greets his customer with a cheery:

"Well, where in the world would you like to go?"

"I've been there—where else do you have?" was the answer.

It used to bring chuckles from those in the industry, pointing up the problems of the trade in trying to satisfy the almost incessant demands for new exotic travel destinations.

But it is not so funny any more. "Where else" could be the moon and possibly the planets beyond some day.

In fact, hundreds of Americans and others—and at least two major U.S. airlines—apparently regard regular, commercial flights to the moon as a virtual certainty in the not too distant future.

Pan American World Airways set up a special reservations section several years ago to handle applications for reservations aboard its first lunar flights.

A spokesman said the first application was filed in 1964 by Austrian newsmen Gerhard Pistor. Other early applicants included Douglas C. Sheppard of Toronto, Keenan Block of Seattle, Miss Kathleen Liebel of Williamsboro, N.J., Mrs. Augustine Dillon of Philadelphia, and D. Robert Smedley (plus one) of Atlanta, Ga.

About 200 more requests for reservations trickled in over the ensuing years, mainly from Americans, as the United States and Soviet Russia sent manned and unmanned space ships probing ever farther into the heavens, he said.

More than 1,000 requests for reservations poured in within weeks, not only from Americans but from Europeans and other foreigners as well, the spokesman said.

All kinds

The applications came from people in all walks of life and of all ages, including a 76-year-old housewife from New Jersey, although space experts will not even speculate on when the first passenger-carrying moon ship will blast off from earth.

A six-year-old boy who phoned to inquire about the inaugural moon flight was not content when told it could come in the late 1980s or early 1990s. The lad insisted on a more precise date so he could start making preparations now, the spokesman said.

Pan Am files each application in order of receipt and forwards a letter of confirmation. The spokesman said the airline also is planning to send a card identifying the holder as a prospective passenger on its moon flights.

Trans World Airlines also is accepting reservations for its inaugural lunar flights. A spokesman said dozens were received within days of Apollo 8's successful moon-orbiting mission and more still are coming in.

One came from 14-year-old William Thomas Axtell, of Tampa, Fla. Tom, as he signed his letter, said he wasn't planning on getting married but it was possible he would so TWA had "better make two reservations."

"If the location isn't any problem I think that the Sea of Tranquility would be appropriate for honeymooners don't you?" he added. Tom said he would begin saving his $1 weekly allowance so that by the time he reached 45 he will have $1,092 for the flight.

Applications are filed in a "Space Flight" section on a priority basis and letters of acknowledgment mailed to the senders. The letters note that "as technological advances develop to the point where we can project the earliest date, we will write you again."

To get on Pan Am's list, write to Pan American Moon Flight, Box 2212, Boston, Mass. 02107. TWA is accepting applications at TWA Reservations Desk, 2 Penn Plaza, N.Y., N.Y. 10001.

We didn't take any chances—we're on both lists.

National League

By United Press International

The Mets' "Mobile Unit" is spreading pennant fever in New York.

Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones, the Mets' flashy, young outfielders from Mobile, Ala., smashed three home runs and drove in six runs between them Tuesday night to lead New York to a 9-4 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

The victory was the Mets' 11th in a row, the longest streak in the majors this season, and kept the second place Mets seven games behind Chicago in the National League's Eastern Division. The Cubs held on to their lead by downing Atlanta 3-1.

Elsewhere St. Louis edged Cincinnati 5-4, Houston beat Pittsburgh 7-4, Los Angeles shaded Philadelphia 2-1 and Montreal whipped San Diego 7-4.

In American League action, Minnesota downed Boston 6-2, Chicago stopped Cleveland 9-5, Detroit blanked Seattle 5-0, Baltimore walloped California 11-4, Oakland defeated Washington 6-4 and Kansas City outlasted New York 7-6.

Agee hit a pair of solo homers, his eighth and ninth of the season, and Jones slammed a three-run shot in the four-run seventh inning to spark the Mets. Agee tied the score at 1-1 with his fourth home run and added another in the ninth to help Don Cardwell record his second victory in eight decisions.

"It's been quite a while since I hit one out of the park," said Agee. "It sure feels good."

"Pitching, defense, base hits, breaks, that's what's doing it for us," said Manager Gil Hodges. "We're finally getting some runs for our pitchers. Cardwell signaled to me in the ninth that he was tired and after I saw the Giants belt those two long home runs, I agreed with him."

Cardwell, who had three hits, scored a run and drove in another, gave up nine home runs to Willie McCovey No. 20 and Jack Hatt, Ron Taylor relieved and shut off the Giants' rally.

Willie Smith and Ron Santo hit eighth inning homers to give the Cubs their victory over the Braves and hand Ken Holtzman his 10th triumph in 11 decisions.

Smith, pinch-hitting for Holtzman, led off the game for the Braves. He became the first player to hit a home run into the Atlanta Stadium upper deck. Al Spangler was safe on Orlando Cepeda's effort and Santo hit his 10th homer with two out. The victory left the Cubs with a 4-1 record this season against the Braves, the Western Division leaders.

Lou Brock led off the game with a homer to ignite a four-run rally that carried the Cardinals past the Reds. Bob Gibson pitched an eight-inning and struck out 11 batters in boosting his record to 8-3.

Brock's homer, one of his three hits, Curt Flood's triple, Vada Pinson's single, a walk and Julian Javier's two-run single scored the four runs in the first. Pinson doubled home Brock in the eighth with what proved to be the deciding run.

Bobby Tolan homered for the Reds in the eighth to cut the margin to 5-4, but Gibson blanked the Reds in the ninth.

Marty Martinez singled in three runs, including the tie-breaker in the seventh inning, to lead the Astros over the Pirates. The victory may have been a costly one for Houston, however, since the Astros lost outfielder Jesus Alou and infielder Hector Torres after a head on collision in left field in the third inning.

Alou suffered a severe concussion and Torres was held overnight for observation. Both players were removed from the field on stretchers.

Martinez, playing for the slumping Doug Rader, snuffed a 4-1 tie with a two-out single in the seventh. He earlier had run-producing hits in the third and fifth innings to score Tom Griffin, who went all the way to even his record at 3-3. Al Oliver, who hit the pop fly on which the Astros players collided, had a three-run inside - the - park homer on the play.

Ted Sizemore singled in Jeff Torborg with two out in the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers over the Phillies and hand Philadelphia its ninth straight loss. Sizemore's bases loaded hit came after loser Woody Fryman gave up a double to John Miller, and walked Torborg and Ken Boyer. Miller was forced at the plate before Sizemore's game-winning hit.

Don Sutton went all the way to record his ninth victory against four losses. The Phils scored their lone run in the fourth on Don Money's sacrifice fly. Don Bosch's two - run double

American League

Boog Powell is hitting to left again and that's one of the reasons why the Baltimore Orioles are going the right way.

The 6-foot-4, 240-pound Baltimore first baseman is strong enough to clobber opposite field homers to left with ease and that's what he did Tuesday night as the Orioles routed the California Angels 11-4.

The left-handed swinger blasted a 420-foot shot to left field for a three-run homer that highlighted a six-run second inning and enabled the Orioles to coast to the victory and move four games in front of the rest of the teams in the Eastern Division.

"When I'm hitting the ball well, I hit to left field," Powell said. "My homers usually come when you least expect them. I'm going for the base hit and the power is there. In 1966 when we won the pennant, I hit 17 of my 34 homers to left and I've hit five of my 11 to left this season."

Powell drove in 109 runs in 1966 with a .287 average and this year he's ahead of that pace with 47 RBIs and a .302 average.

"June has been a great month for me in the past," he noted. "We've got too many good bats on this club to go into a team slump. There's the Robinsons, Paul Blair, Dave Johnson and myself. And we've gotten added punch from Mark Belanger. Every one of his hits is a bonus," he said.

Powell has hit just 234 and 249 with 55 and 85 RBIs the past two years and that's one of the reasons the Orioles didn't win after their 1966 success. But this year Powell is on the beam and the Orioles are breezing along in first place.

In other American League action, Minnesota edged Boston 6-2, Chicago routed Cleveland 9-5, Detroit blanked Seattle 5-0, Oakland topped Washington 6-4 and Kansas City nipped New York 7-6.

Minnesota remained 2½ games ahead of Oakland in the Western Division by drubbing Boston. Jim Kaat pitched a seven-inning and doubled in the third inning to trigger a five-run uprising. Ray Culp went 2 - 3 innings and suffered the loss.

Reggie Jackson doubled in the tying run in the seventh inning and scored the deciding run on Danny Cater's single as the Athletics topped Washington. Paul Lindblad got credit for the victory with 2-3 innings of relief while Dennis Higgins suffered the loss even though he pitched only 2-3 of an inning.

Lou Piniella drove in four runs with a two-run double and a two-run single as Kansas City edged New York. Dave Wickersham came out of the bullpen in the ninth inning and retired the side with the tying run on third to preserve the victory. Roy White drove in four runs for the Yanks.

Norm Cash hit his 10th homer and Earl Wilson, John Hiller and Don McMahon combined on a six-hit shutout as the Tigers beat Seattle. Wilson went the first six innings but was driven out in the seventh by two singles. Hiller retired the one batter he faced—Don Mincher on a liner to right—and McMahon pitched the final 2-3 innings.

Rookie Carlos May drove in four runs with a single and a pair of doubles to lead Chicago past Cleveland. The White Sox' victory broke their five game losing streak. Cisco Carlos took the win with one inning of relief work while Mike Paul, the second of six Cleveland pitchers, suffered the loss.

HARRIS INJURED
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Infielder Billy Harris was examined by team physician Dr. Paul Meyer Monday for an ankle injury and was placed on the 21-day disabled list by the Kansas City Royals. Harris was injured crossing first base in the final play of Sunday's game in Boston.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's research shows truck and bus drivers' health and emotional problems are an increasing cause of accidents. Federal Highway Administration's Francis C. Turner reported Friday drivers are required to get physical check ups every year instead of every three years and that procedures be set up to remove drivers who become a threat to safety through drunkenness, use of drugs and bad driving records.

LICENSE VACCINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first vaccine against German measles, which endangers the unborn children of pregnant women, is expected to be licensed early next week. The vaccine was produced by the vaccine research center of the U. S. Public Health Service and will be available to the public by the end of the year.

"COURTESY CALL"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Gardner, executive secretary of the U. N. Economic Commission for Africa, met Friday with Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Palmer. A State Department spokesman said Gardner's visit was "just a courtesy call." Gardner is attending a conference held by the Standing Committee of the World Bank, the African Development Bank, the U. N. Development Program and ECA.

It's the law—when boaters are towing water skiers, there must be one other person over twelve years old in the boat to observe the person on skis or, the boat must have a rear view mirror which covers a minimum of 170 degrees. The Corps of Engineers asks all skiers to enjoy the lakes in this region; but asks that they observe safety measures. Be water wise—and survive.

All water skiers must wear some type of life preserver. A ski belt is alright while skiing; but an approved jacket, vest or cushion must be available in the boat for the skiers and for each person aboard. Take safety with you when you go to the water.

Nicklaus and Palmer Both Have Problems

HOUSTON UPI — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer aren't scaring anybody these days - on the eve of the 1968 U. S. Open golf championship both of them admit they have problems.

"I know what I'm doing wrong," admitted golden bear Nicklaus after playing an 18-hole practice round over the steaming Cypress Creek Course where a field of 139 pros and 11 amateurs open battle Thursday in the 72-hole contest for the title won last year by Texan Lee Trevino.

"I just haven't been able to correct it," said Nicklaus. The two-time U. S. Open Champion from Ohio didn't disclose what his problem is, but he hasn't won a tournament since San Diego back in January and on Tuesday he dropped a little Nassau money to Palmer's two-over-par 72. Palmer, getting ready for the last Open he'll play under the age of 40, also knows what he has been doing wrong in recent years and he thinks he may be correcting it. It's his "concentration."

And strangely enough, being forced to qualify in sectional competition to earn a spot in this year's Open may have been the blessing in disguise that helped him find the cure.

"I went out there knowing I had to play well to qualify," explained the Latrobe, Pa., star whose eligibility for an automatic starting berth expired this year. "It forced me to concentrate. It was like in the old days when I just had to make a hundred bucks if I was going to get to the next stop on the tour."

Palmer, now nine years past his only Open triumph qualified with a 70-68 in Pennsylvania. Both he and Nicklaus have been grimly determined in their practice here and after their 18-hole workout Tuesday, they spent time on the practice tee and then went right back out for another nine holes despite the 93-degree heat and 41 per cent humidity which combined to make it hot going over Cypress.

Gary Player, the little South African who is one of the top favorites here because of his hot performance in the limited amount of competition he has had this year, offered an explanation for Nicklaus' recent woes—and Nicklaus promptly denied it.

"Jack isn't practicing enough," said Player. "He has been spending a lot of time with his family, which is admirable. But he isn't getting in enough practice."

"Sure, I spend a lot of time with my family—and I'm going to go on doing it," said Nicklaus. "But I'm getting in plenty of practice—as much as anybody here."

Owensboro Hydroplane Regatta Set

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Riding on a cushion of air, the world's fastest racing boats compete for a $21,000 purse Sunday to climax Kentucky's Unlimited Hydroplane Regatta. The five days of the event, which opened today, will be filled with qualifying races and special events leading up to the Kentucky Governor's Cup Race Sunday.

Speeding along the Ohio River at 150 to 200 miles per hour, the major leaguers of the boat racing world will traverse a 21-mile course along the city's waterfront.

Unlimited class hydroplanes must weigh at least 5,000 pounds, be 25-40 feet long and be powered by an internal combustion engine that turns a propeller.

Most of the boats are powered by 12-cylinder engines that provided power for fighter planes that ruled the skies during World War II.

At racing speed, only one blade of the two-bladed propeller is in the water; the other is always out of the water, throwing a gigantic rooster tail spray.

The rooster tail is not only a colorful sight but also is a strategic weapon. The lead boat can thwart a challenger's play with the effects of this column of water.

Murray Tops Paris 12 to 3

The Murray American Legion baseball team rolled over the Paris, Tennessee American Legion baseball team Sunday with a final score of 12-3.

The first five innings of the game was a tight battle with the score tied at 1-1 but Murray broke the game wide open in the fifth inning with five big runs.

The only extra base hit for Murray was a double by Nell in the ninth inning. Murray collected a total of 7 hits during the game.

The Murray American Legion baseball team will play Paris, Tenn. at Holland Stadium Friday night at 7:30 p. m.

IMPROVE NUTRITION
IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — To improve your nutrition, just keep frying your bacon and eggs in an iron frying pan.
Dr. Leroy Voris of the Federal Food and Nutrition Board Friday told 600 nutritionists at the University of California at Irvine:
"Cooking in iron utensils will go a long way toward providing the body with its needed iron. While you gradually eat away the frying pan along with the bacon and eggs, your nutrition will probably improve."

The counselor needs the help

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were not getting along at all well together, so we went to a marriage counselor. He said we ought to straighten OURSELVES out, and suggested we go to a psychiatrist.

Well, the psychiatrist listened to us, and said he didn't think we needed psychiatry, we needed to work out our marital problems, so we went back to this marriage counselor.

He talked to us a while and then said we just weren't right for each other, and we never should have gotten married in the first place. [Wasn't that helpful?] We've been married for nine years, have three children and think our marriage is worth saving. What do you suggest?

PILLAR TO POST

DEAR PILLAR: I don't know what kind of "marriage counselor" you went to, but he needs to straighten HIMSELF out. Ask the psychiatrist who told you to see a marriage counselor to recommend one.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about people who keep TOUCHING you when they talk to you? This irritates me so much. Even though I may like that person very much, I feel so resentful when they poke, nudge, and hit me to emphasize some point in their conversation. [Oddly enough, more women are guilty of this than men.]

I realize that the toucher probably doesn't even realize she is doing it at the time, but this is of little comfort to me. Is there some diplomatic way to put a stop to it, or must I give up my friendship with such a person?

POKED IN MANHATTAN

DEAR POKED: There is NO way to defend yourself against the annoyance of compulsive touchers, pokers, or nudgers. Either keep out of their reach or stay out of their company altogether.

DEAR ABBY: If they held a world-wide contest to find the Champion Sinner of all time, I could enter my husband and he would win hands down.

Name the commandment and he's broken it. He can look you in the eye and lie with both hands on the Bible! Why, if that man told me the house was on fire I wouldn't move a muscle until I saw the flame.

Now here is the part you won't believe. Where do you think this sinner spends most of his time? In church! How long is it supposed to take for the preacher's message to reach in?

"SAVED" IN NASHVILLE

DEAR "SAVED": No one knows. But you can't complain too much about a man who spends most of his time in a house of worship. A church is a hospital for sinners—not a museum for saints.

DEAR ABBY: When my son was married about six months ago, I gave him my original wedding band to place on his bride's finger. [I have another one.]

The marriage lasted only a few months, a clean break has been made, and my son and the girl are not even on speaking terms. Since my son thought this was going to be a lasting marriage, the shock of its failure has caused him great emotional stress.

I would like to have my wedding ring back, but I do not want to ask my son to get it back for me. Should I ask the girl myself? Or should I ask her mother? The ring can't possibly mean anything to the girl and it means a great deal to me.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Ask the girl for the ring. You've nothing to lose.

WIFE FOR SALE, $60,000—Mrs. Marie Shaw perches prettily on hood of husband Ken's car, waiting for a buyer, presumably, after she and/or the car were advertised "For Sale" in Canterbury, England. Wife—1944. 5 ft. 36-24-34. 25,000 pounds ($60,000) or nearest offer."

For the bridal occasion the bride-elect chose to wear a powder blue bonded linen dress with a hostess gift corsage of red carnations. Her mother wore a red and white dacton dotted swiss dress. Mrs. Dee Lamb, mother of the groom-elect wore a pink double knit dress. Both wore corsages of white carnations, gifts of the hostesses.

The bride-elect opened her many gifts and placed them on a gift table that was covered with a white tablecloth and centered with a shower umbrella.

The serving table was covered with a damask ivory tablecloth and centered with a bride and groom and flanked by red rose buds and cut glass bud vases.

Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and mints were served. Miss Brenda Harrison and Mrs. Judith Ainley served the punch. Miss Nancy Baker and Miss Barbara Rose served the cake. Appointments were of cut glass crystal.

Approximately seventy-five guests called or sent gifts.

Many people have the mistaken impression that TB is no longer a serious problem. They couldn't be more wrong! Last year more than 1,000 new, active cases were reported in Kentucky.

Do you check your car before starting a trip? Check yourself too! A health checkup including a tuberculin test or a chest X-ray is recommended by your TB and Respiratory Disease Association.

The number of new cases of Emphysema seen by physicians increased 64 percent between 1963 and 1967, the Kentucky TB and Respiratory Disease Association reports.

Christmas seals fight tuberculosis all year long.

BLACK SUPPORT — Graduation at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., finds about 75 students with this red hand stenciled on their gowns, to show support for black students who occupied the administration building for 11 days in January.

Are you buying a necktie for Father's Day gift? Women buy 65 per cent of all neckties for men and no doubt Dad's taste doesn't always coincide with yours. If in doubt about what tie to buy, ask the clerk for advice. Your best bet is to stay moderately conservative. A matching tie or a mildly contrasting one is usually a wise choice. The hula girl, animals or gaudy psychedelic colors may be cute on the rack but are not very attractive when tied around Dad's neck. — Catherine C. Thompson

This used car is guaranteed 100%.

(The dealer guarantees 100% to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assemblies, brake system, electrical system for 30 days or 1,000 miles, whichever comes first.)

How to spot a beauty.

It's easy. Go down to your local Volkswagen used car lot. And look for a car with a big blue and white sign in the window. Like the one shown above. Only a car that's passed our rugged 16-point inspection earns this 100% guarantee.*

This states that for 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first, if anything conks out that the guarantee said wouldn't conk out, we'll fix it free. Including replacements, parts and labor. So now you know how to spot a beauty. The cream of the crop. A car that won't turn into a beast.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK UPI — The stock market decline is continuing somewhat further than James Dines & Co. expected, but the firm still looks for a renewed buying point soon.

The pattern of blue Mondays is here again, the firm says, and most short-term indicators point down. The advance-decline ratio continues negative and the number of new lows each day continues to dominate the number of new highs. Nevertheless, the firm says, technical indicators remain bullish and the market probably will work itself irregularly higher.

Reynolds & Co. is surprised and relieved that the market is doing as well as it is in the face of "one of the most publicized and severe credit crunches in recent history". The general list seems to be drifting off sideways rather than going down abruptly, it says. "Stocks with a story continue to be active and strong, suggesting there still is no shortage of speculative sentiment."

There is unmistakable evidence that the great 1961-69 business boom is reaching the end of the line, says Spear and Staff. Remove the effect of price rises, and you discover that the rate of "real" economic expansion has been declining, quarter by quarter, since early last year.
Even so, the stock market may continue stable as long as money is available at a price, the firm adds.

Investment Company Institute points out that institutional money has been flowing into mutual funds in greater amounts for some time. Unit sales of $25,000 and over now account for almost half of all mutual fund sales, the firm points out. Of all the many types of institutions owning fund shares, labor unions have the highest average investment, church and religious organizations the lowest.

Dear Customer:

As you have noticed, the Highway Department has started construction to widen U.S. 641 to a four lane highway. We are most happy to see this additional bit of progress for the safety and convenience of our citizens.

But once again, the construction of the new four-lane road makes it imperative that we sell out all of our present stock of merchandise, in order that it will not be damaged by the dust the construction will cause.

In order to move this big stock of quality merchandise as quickly as possible, we have slashed prices on everything in the store. This means lower prices on bedroom, living room, dining room, den and casual furniture of all kinds. Every Hotpoint Appliance in the store has been slashed in price. Floor covering was never priced lower.

If you remember the sale we had when we had to re-locate our store off the right-of-way for the new road, you know that we really mean it when we say we have cut prices to the bone.

We call this event a "Beat the Dust Sale", and it will start Thursday morning. Just one trip to the store is all it will take for you to realize this is an opportunity like you seldom see in the furniture business.

Come to our "Beat the Dust Sale" soon, and we promise you you'll find furniture values that cannot be matched by anybody, anywhere.

See you Thursday.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiggins

Prosperity No Help To Housing in Japan

By LEON DANIEL

TOKYO (UPI) — In Japan a man's home is not necessarily his castle.

It is more likely to be a single small room where his entire family lives without privacy, to say nothing of a bath or even a toilet.

It is ironic that in Japan, an industrial superpower whose citizens have the highest per capita income in Asia, millions of people are inadequately housed.

About one-fourth of the 11 million residents of Tokyo, the world's largest city, live in what are called "apartments," an Anglicized form of the word for apartment.

These are privately-owned, multi-unit dwellings made of wood or concrete. The invariably drab, barrack-like buildings usually have a communal toilet but no bath.

The rooms, almost always rented singly and unfurnished, usually contain a gas outlet and a sink but no hot water. No heat is provided. There is a small built-in closet where bedding is stored when not in use on the straw-mat floor.

For the families who live in a single room, the government's five-year housing plan must sometimes seem an impossible dream. That plan, scheduled for completion in March, 1971, seeks to adequately house each of the 100 million Japanese.

Shuichi Hirayama, 25, a plasterer, and his bride, Katuko, 23, live in a single room 12 feet long and nine feet wide. Hirayama's take-home pay is 45,000 yen ($125) per month.

Their rent is 11,000 yen ($30.56) per month but before they moved into their single room two months ago they had to pay a landlord 41,000 yen ($114.17) in key money.

One View
Mrs. Hirayama is satisfied for the present but she said: "My ambition is to raise children in our own house in a suburb."

It is easy to believe her when she says her present home is no place to raise the children she and her husband expect.

The room looks smaller than it is because three closets are jammed against one wall. The only heat is an electric kotatsu, an ingenious device with a blanket covering which Japanese use to warm their feet and legs.

We are pessimistic about the government doing anything about housing for average families like us," Mrs. Hirayama said.

Many other Japanese are pessimistic too, despite that ambitious government housing plan.

One handy explanation for Japan's housing crisis is that during the years after the war the people were preoccupied with obtaining food and clothing and until recently few could dream of better housing. But now that income levels have risen, the Japanese are demanding the government do something about housing.

The Japanese are faced with extremely high interest rates, construction costs and land prices, according to research by the Mainichi, one of the largest newspapers in Japan.

The Japan Real Estate Institute reports that average land prices have risen 10 times in the period since 1955. Less land is available for housing because few land owners want to sell. They believe the price will continue to go up.

Hideo Edo, president of the firm which built Tokyo's only skyscraper (36 stories), believes the answer to the housing problem is the construction of high rise residences in the urban complexes.

Municipal housing in Tokyo can be inexpensive if one is lucky enough to win an apartment by lottery. But there are far more applicants than apartments.

Veterans Questions and Answers

Q. — How long does one have to serve in Viet-Nam to be eligible for the G. I. Bill to return to college, and how much would a married veteran with no children receive each month?

A. — Actual service in Viet-Nam itself is not a requirement for benefits (including educational assistance) under the G. I. Bill.

Q. — The law requires that the veteran must have at least 181 days active duty, any part of which occurred after Jan. 31, 1955. (Active duty for training purposes cannot be counted towards the 181 days.)

A. — A veteran in full-time training (at least 16 semester hours) would receive training allowance of $155 monthly if he has one dependent.

Q. — I was retired from the Air Force last April 30 because of physical disability. Am I entitled to VA compensation pay as well?

A. — There is a prohibition against simultaneous receipt of service retirement pay and VA compensation. You may elect to receive whichever of these benefits is the greater.

Q. — You may re-elect between these benefits as often as it is advantageous to you.

Q. — I was recently divorced. I am now a dependent parent of a son lost in Viet-Nam. I am 40 years old and would like to return to school to better qualify myself for self-support. Is educational assistance available for me through the VA?

A. — No. Educational benefits have been authorized for widows of veterans whose death was due to service and wives of service-connected permanently and totally disabled veterans. This benefit is not available to dependent parents.

Q. — Air pollution costs the average American family over $300 a year.

They Better Mean 'Down on the Farm'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plans for a slight softening of rules designed to protect flavor-hungry consumers against misleading use of words like "farm" and "country" were announced this week by the Agriculture Department.

Under the department's current labeling regulations for meat and poultry products, strict controls are imposed on the use of label terms which may evoke images of old-time rural food.

UNLESS the product has actually been prepared on a farm or in the country, or "in a recognized farm or country manner," the words "farm" and "country" cannot be used alone on labels. Instead, processors must use hybrid words like "farm-style," or "country brand."

A proposed new regulation would relax this rule for several products including soups, heat-and-serve dinners and stews. For such products, the magic rural words could be used on labels—if the terms are legally part of the manufacturer's trade name.

The Agriculture Department added, however, that when a patented trade name is used under the new proposal, no other rural-flavored words or pictures could be used on a meat label unless the product itself met the old test of having been made on a farm, or in a "country manner."

Officials said they decided to relax the rule for items like soups and frozen dinners because they figured consumers wouldn't be likely to believe such products were manufactured in a country kitchen by a motherly farm wife.

Alfalfa One Of Best Forage Crops

Alfalfa is one of the best forage crops for area farmers where they have soil conditions suitable for its production.

Farmers who manage their alfalfa carefully, receive high dividends from this crop. Here are some management tips to keep it producing efficiently.

Keep the alfalfa stand going. Young stands should have 10 or more plants per square foot. Older stands can get by with five or more plants per square foot. In any case, 75 per cent or more ground cover is needed for best production.

Topdress the crop after first harvest if it has not been fertilized since the last cutting last fall. A soil test is the best guide to the crop's needs. However, if a current soil test is not available an application of 400 to 600 pounds of an 0-15-30 with boron added (equivalent) should take care of most situations.

Control the alfalfa weevil. After the first crop is taken off, spray the stubble as soon as possible if larvae were found in the crop. After stubble spraying, allow five to six weeks for recovery between the first and second cuttings. If it was necessary to make the first cutting earlier than usual, or if weeds and insects destroyed the first cut, allow six to seven weeks for recovery after stubble spraying before the second cutting.

If you plan to flame your crop this winter to help control the alfalfa weevil, make no more than four cuttings this season. Leave the residue from mid-September for flaming material.

Spring seedlings usually have little, if any, trouble during the establishment year with the alfalfa weevil; however, there are reports this year of infestations on some spring seedlings heavy enough to warrant spraying. Fall seedlings usually are hit and 1969 is no exception to this.

Geographical Center

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Casper, located in central Wyoming, is the approximate geographical center of the United States west of the Mississippi River.

The city derived its name from the misspelling of the first name of Lt. Casper Collins, who was killed while leading 25 men in aid of a wagon train being attacked by some 3,000 Indians.

At latest report more than 45,000 new, active cases of tuberculosis were being reported annually in the United States.

Having had TB gives immunity from future breakdown with the disease. On the contrary, a TB victim who has recovered still remains infected; he always must be aware of the possibility of relapse.

Today's New Hippie Preachers, Pin-Ups, Profanity and Pulpit

By CARL H. GILES
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

HIPPIER than thou preachers are on the psychedelic circuit. They are missionaries in—and of—the new morality. It's a new culting and carousing clergy, and the altar of some of them may be in a bar or burlesque joint. And they may be there before and after their sermon.

They are dropouts from the Establishment church. The Establishment church can't communicate with the Establishment, they say. So it certainly can't relate to the Now generation. Hippiedom has its cult, but the majority of the young people today can't take the hypocrisy of the usual Sunday religion. And they are well aware of the gross unrest of the denominations.

Priests are standing in line for marriage licenses. The enrollment figures in the seminaries are dropping. And the hippie's bag doesn't have room for a Bible. But the controversial hippie preachers are spreading the gospel with the ways of today.

Rev. Malcolm Boyd, a 44-year-old Episcopal priest, lectures on some 125 campuses each year. The former atheist, adman and Hollywood television producer is a veteran of some sit-ins and a bombed-out Mississippi Freedom House.

"DRINKING, I love it," Rev. Boyd told a crowd of college students in Memphis recently. "I like gin, the taste of it swirling around in my mouth and on my teeth. I prefer it to beer because I'm a snob. I guess. Perhaps you think this is evil?"

He cusses a lot during his talks. "If you think I'm swearing," he tells his crowds, "look at your own grubby, filthy, clean little life." He talks about sex, pot, and peace. He smashes at the false images of the Establishment. A few walk out on him. The rest either love or hate him after his harangues. And the latter are always in the minority.

Rev. Boyd snatches the complacent facade from a crowd first. He rips off "the false peace." Despite his cocktails in the evening—often at bars with go-go girls—and his pro-family-only "nigger" and "nazi" are bad words, he says—the hep Boyd says he devoutly loves the church. He's been called the expresso priest, a latter-day Luther, and "the Lenny Bruce of the pulpit."

Rev. "Bourbon Street Bob" Harrington preaches from a conventional pulpit in sharp contrast to the barroom decor where he often delivers sermons.

After the publication of his book, "Are You Running With Me, Jesus?" a magazine called Rev. Boyd "one of the 100 most important young men and women in the United States."

"Bourbon Street Bob" Harrington of New Orleans has preached in saloons and had the strippers sing hymns. The husky preacher says he was once a "playboy." His suits are conservative, but he always wears a red trinity of red socks, tie, and handkerchief. He began his clerical career by lecturing to the drunks, the hoods and the prostitutes on the boulevard of the blues.

THE wavy-haired Rev. Harrington doesn't elaborate too much on his "playboy" past, but he's built like a bouncer and could handle one or two of them at a time. He makes the transition from a nightclub stage to a conventional church with ease. Somehow he seems more domestic in the subdued lighting of honky-tonks. He doesn't visit very many campuses. "Bourbon Street" Bob has given up his vices even though he likes to work the rough skid-rows. "I no longer drink, smoke, or carry-on," he told a University of Tennessee at Martin crowd.

In 1962 the New Orleans mayor proclaimed him "the chaplain of Bourbon Street." He had his pulpit headquarters in a converted liquor store then, but the ministry of Bob Harrington, Inc., now occupies an entire courtyard on Bourbon.

"The Lord came to bless us, not to bug us," he tells people. Even some of the more conventional chaplains are using some shapely visual aids to illustrate their secular sermons.

Rev. Lon Chestnut of Atlanta's Emory University recently projected some pinup pictures from a men's magazine on the chapel wall. His theme of the nudes was that people should not be so commercially disposable.

Attracting Industry

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Living conditions and educational opportunities are now primary considerations that help attract industry, according to Neal L. Moylan, New York State Commerce Commissioner.

"The trend today is toward larger and more technologically complex plants," Moylan said. "These require more highly skilled supervisory personnel. He said while skilled personnel are likely to be found in an area with a good educational system, such personnel then demand good living conditions."

NEW DELHI (UPI) — United States' imports of Indian tea were valued at $9.6 million in 1968.

Wouldn't it be a shame if you saved a pile of money for retirement and there was nothing to retire to?

There's only one way to save money that helps insure your country's future at the same time.

That's U.S. Savings Bonds.

With U.S. Savings Bonds, you're simply helping your country make the future a little better than the present.

Also, Savings Bonds are easy and automatic. All you do is fill out a little card through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

And then you sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up.

You don't have to muster up any will-power to save every payday, because your boss does it for you. It's something like setting up extra paydays for the future. Think about Savings Bonds for your retirement. It's not only a way to insure money for retirement. It's a way to insure retirement.

US Reveals Costs Of Viet Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans to spend more than $1.5 billion per year to equip the South Vietnamese army — and if it pays off there may be more U.S. troop withdrawals.

U.S. support forces including jet fighters, helicopters, supply and transportation outfits, meanwhile, would remain behind to assist the South Vietnamese as they take over the fighting.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said in an impromptu news conference Monday the first 25,000-man withdrawal announced by President Nixon at Midway will be "heavily weighted" with Army and Marine combat units.

No Air Force or Navy men will be included, he said. The target date for a further withdrawal is early August, he said. And the situation will be reviewed at regular intervals thereafter.

Laird refused to make any predictions, but his hope for the South Vietnamese forces was spelled out earlier this year when he submitted a revised budget cutting Pentagon spending elsewhere but asking for an increase of $37 million for South Vietnamese equipment.

This brought to $1.5 billion the total available for equipping the South Vietnamese during the year beginning July 1 if Congress approves. Laird said the money would go for "troop carriers, trucks, trailers, radios, night vision devices, and so forth as well as guns and ammunition."

The regular South Vietnamese forces increased from 680,000 in January, 1968, to 820,000 at the start of this year. They had reached 845,000 in March and 867,000 in April, and are scheduled to go to 875,000 by the end of 1969. This would be the equivalent in population ratio to an army of more than 15 million in the United States.

Even if national police and militia are included, to bring the South Vietnamese strength to more than a million, the new budget would provide approximately $1,300 per man for equipping them during the 12 month period.

LOST SEA LION

TAMWORTH, England (UPI) — Attendants at the Drayton Manor Zoo went hunting for a sea lion with a tape recorder.

Susa the sea lion, fresh from the United States, disappeared somewhere in the 20-acre boating lake.

Zoo attendants went after her with a tape recording of sea lion barks and roars from her sister, Susan.

Susa wasn't listening, apparently. She was still missing today.

Weed Control Important In Fields

LEXINGTON, KY. — Weeds are big thieves of burley crop quality and yield, says Ira Massie, UK Cooperative Extension Service tobacco specialist.

"Grassy or broadleaf weeds, competing with tobacco plants, will always win," he points out. "The weeds are sturdier and get more sun, moisture, and nutrients. This reduces crop yield and quality."

Massie lists the following control methods:

MANUAL: Use the old standby of light cultivation between rows.

Lil' Abner

Just break the surface of the ground to kill weeds. Later in the season, chopping out is the best bet to reduce weeds; there is less danger of injuring tobacco plant roots by this method.

CHEMICAL: There are three chemicals suggested for trial use. Five to 10 days after the crop is set out, use Vernam or Enide. Vernam should be broadcast over the field and plowed in immediately. Enide is used as a spray in a band 15 to 20 inches over the tobacco; it is not necessary to plow this material in.

Kentucky has the second highest TB case rate in the continental United States.
